

Training Session

A preface on using programming language "R" in the Statistical analysis

CAPMAS held a session entitled (Preface on using the programming language "R" in the statistical analysis) at the center of training on information technology in the period from 1/7/2012 to 5/7/2012 the trainer will be the expert Engineer / Muhammad Khalaf from Jordan department statistics and in cooperation with the Arab institute in Jordan.

The session aims to identify the use of "R" language in build & audit the databases, conduct mathematical operations, and constructive statistical analysis.

Participants who attend this session were a group of employee in census & population statistics sector, Economic & mobilization statistics sector and Information Technology sector.